ENTITLED TO YOUR VOTE.

DAN J. ROBB, straight Democratic candidate for the office of county treasurer, is entitled to the support of the mass of citizens who wish to see the death of machine rule in local affairs. Mr. Robb is one of the oldest settlers of Tonopah and a man who may rightly be termed a son of Nevada, as it is so long ago that he came to this state that he has forgotten the year. It was in Pioche where he made his debut and then it was on to Aurora when that camp claimed the attention of the mining universe. Mr. Robb was first man to file for any county office and he has made his campaign on the grounds that he is a Democrat, a successful business man and a conscientious citizen. Mr. Robb is making the campaign alone as a protest against the action of the courthouse ring and he is meeting with the same loyal support that he did when he was elected sheriff of Esmeralda county when that county was the brightest star in the southern constellation. The popularity of Mr. Robb was clearly shown during the recent fire. He was campaigning in the southern end of the county when his home was menaced. Over a hundred citizens rallied to the relief of the family and removed every stick of furniture from the house, even taking up the carpets and removing the pictures from the walls. When the flames were subdued at the gate of the Robb house the same enthusiastic men carried back the furniture and replaced every article where it belonged with such care that the Robbs did not sustain one dollar damage. Few men have such a firm hold on the affections of the people and the incident serves to point the way the voters are going when they retire to the booth to mark their ballots.

ODDIE FIRST, LAST AND ALL TIME.

ODDIE, the maligned governor of Nevada, is as certain of election tomorrow as the world is certain that the sun will rise in the east and set in the west. Oddie has made good. He has had to struggle with adverse conditions, but he has succeeded in overcoming every obstacle thrown in his path. He has been handicapped by envious enemies who would prefer to brand his administration as a failure. He never quailed before the task of bringing about such changes at Carson City that the taxpayers would not have to reproach him with continuing the regime of reckless squandering. Oddie is manly. He is straightforward. He hits right from the shoulder. Every voter knows where Oddie stands on all public questions. There has not been any shirking or shenanagings to escape a dilemma. He was there with the direct answer to all questions. Among these was whether he would stand with lovers of right and justice in abetting open gambling and free love through the divorce courts. Oddie said "no" to both. Reno said he would lose the vote of Washoe county unless he altered his mind, but Oddie reiterated his determination to rid Nevada once for all of the odium of legalized harlotry and its concomitant evil of open gambling. If there is to be a return of the evil days of Nevada Oddie says the backward step must be taken under some other governor. He is not going to stand for it and the voters are going to say they will not stand for the degeneracy of frontier days. Nevada is a homebuilders' state and to encourage the homebuilder to come here with his family Nevada is going to advertise the fact next Tuesday that the citizens of this state have annihilated the forces that would place a premium on immorality.

Oddie has a backbone like the rafter of a huge mill, while Boyle has the spine of an angle worm. In this campaign Boyle is the spokesman for the undesirable element.

WHERE A BANKER IS NEEDED.

THE State Treasurer of Nevada is entrusted with over $3,000,000 of state funds to handle and invest and when a thoughtless person says a man without experience can take an office with such responsibilities he is not qualified to pass on the importance of placing these moneys in the hands of an untrained man. Take the two local banks of Tonopah for example. What would you think if the directors of these staunch and sterling institutions hired a laborer or mechanic to take charge of their investments, to check their credits and look after their debits and otherwise engage in the game of high finance? You would not think much of such a board of directors, would you? You would not care to entrust them with more than a small balance necessary to the actual conduct of your business. Yet both of these banks do not begin to compare with the office of the State Treasurer in volume of business. Therefore William McMillan, a banker by profession with trained intellect and an incisive knowledge of the intricacies of investments, is the man for the place. He should be returned with a majority so great that the citizens of Nevada will know that the voters have gone on record for a business administration. This is not the time to indulge in experiments that may prove costly. Money is commanding a greater premium today than at any time in the history of the nation and the surplus funds of Nevada may be made to yield even a handsomer revenue than now with a banker handling the funds. That's all that is to it.

Voters of Nevada

TO THE REPUBLICAN VOTERS OF NEVADA:
 At the Republican State Convention, held in the City of Carson on September 23rd, 1914, the following resolution was adopted by such convention:
 "WHEREAS, Mr. R. A. McKay, on the invitation of this convention, has appeared before it and made a clear and convincing statement of the circumstances attending his nomination for the office of attorney-general and that the same was for no other purpose than to carry out the understanding between the Republican and Progressive party nominating candidates for the office of attorney-general and state printer, without Republican opposition, and
 "WHEREAS, Mr. McKay has requested this convention and through it the Republican party of the state to ignore his candidacy and support Hon. George Springmeyer, the Progressive nominee in his stead; now therefore
 "RESOLVED, That the thanks of this convention be tendered Mr. McKay for his courageous and manly action in the premises; that his withdrawal from the list of active Republican candidates be accepted, and that this convention endorse the candidacy of Hon. Fred J. Trimmer for the office of state printer and hereby pledge the Republican party to their unqualified support at the polls.
 I desire to respectfully and earnestly urge the Republican voters of the state to carry out the terms of the above resolution.
 Dated, Carson City, Nevada, October 16th, 1914.
 R. A. MCKAY.

THE MAN FOR THE PLACE.

WHEN it came to handling the I. W. W. situation Bill Evans, the Bodie boy who officiates as chief of police, showed how the matter should be disposed of. Nothing has been heard of violence since the arrival of the disorderly element from the southern country where the troublemakers had things their own way. Now that the situation has been clarified by removal of the indigents the people of Tonopah should know to whom they owe a debt of gratitude. It was Bill Evans, the stately chief of police whose energetic brain found a solution for the trouble. He would have done the same thing earlier when the peace of the camp was threatened by half a dozen lawless characters had he not been hogtied by the district attorney and justice of the peace in their game of peanut politics wherein they sought to gain the good will of the imported disturbers and kick up such a cloud of dust that the people would not see that they were being imposed on and that the noise and clamor was nothing more than a mere subterfuge to cloud the atmosphere.

Tiring of these handicaps Evans took the situation in his own hands and the result was seen one dusty afternoon when fifteen imported never works were sent hiking back to the land whence they came. The district attorney was not responsible for that.

That's the kind of a man Bill Evans is. He can be relied on at all times to do his duty.

DISOWNED BY HIS OWN STATE.

IF Newlands were as good a man as his boosters claim for him the administration would not find it necessary to send so many imported speakers to the little state of Nevada, which has been neglected and abused by the Wilson following. For the first time in the history of Nevada the national administration has been invoked for the election of a single candidate who has not a friend at home and whose attainments are of such an inferior order that he has not been able to muster enough friends to take the stump in his interest. Bill Sharon, the wily brother-in-law who has handled the pork barrel for many years, appears on the scene on election eve and his coming can only be suggestive of the opening of a big sack to supplement the contents of the pork barrel. Sharon is not a resident of Nevada. He is a registered voter in California, but his interests just now lie in the re-election of his kinsman to perpetuate the millionaire's club in the United States senate. Then there is Clay Tallman, commissioner of the general land office, who is paid a salary for keeping an office open in Washington. He has been brought into Nevada to do a political stunt. So has Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, who has robbed the prospector of the right to make locations of mineral lands in Alaska by prevailing on the administration to adopt the leasing system by which the prospector is nothing more than a bondman of the government. The man who pays the highest tribute gets the ground and the poor man gets the laugh. This is the kind of a man Secretary Lane is and he is hail fellow well met with Senator Newlands and the other silk stockinged creatures who enjoy the privileges of the senate without making any return to the people who send them there.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE.

FRANCIS MOORE, the nominee of the Republican party for the office of sheriff of Nye county, is the man with the punch, the man who goes right to the meat of the question and promises voters that he will be on the job of assessor just as steadily as though he were working for one of the big mining companies with a time-keeper at his heels. Mr. Moore is not shirking any responsibilities. He says he is going to run the office of sheriff, if elected, and let somebody else do politics to their heart's content. Mr. Moore has made a fine campaign of the personal order, going to each voter and asking for his vote with a lucid explanation of the necessity for making a change in the system which has obtained at the courthouse for the last eight years. Moore is the right kind of a man to support and he has the stuff to make votes. When you go to the polls tomorrow see that you place a cross opposite his name.

Don't vote for Richard A. McKay, who appears on the official ballot as candidate for attorney-general. He is not a candidate and has declared himself to that effect. He even began suit against himself to compel the supreme court to declare him ineligible for the office of attorney-general on the ground that he failed to comply with the primary law, but the supreme court refused to let him escape. It looks as though the supreme court would favor the retention of Mr. Thatcher and is not averse to helping the last cause of that candidate.

For Secretary of State the man for the office is A. W. Holmes, the building contractor of Reno. He is an honest man who has given the investors of Reno some of the best built edifices that stand as monuments to the builder's art. He is the man who will bring constructive talents to the office which has been used as a family pension bureau. Mr. Holmes pledges himself not to employ a single relative and to cut the cost of conducting the office fully fifty per cent. Holmes has always employed union men and he never has had the slightest trouble with any man in his employment.

Joe Lozano, official stenographer of the district court of Washoe county, is the right candidate for office of lieutenant-governor. He is an excellent authority on parliamentary law and would bring to the position the experience of service in the legislature. One of his pledges to the voters is that he will not make appointments during the absence of the governor from the state. We would not do as Ross did, foist on the people another George Thatcher.

To vote for the enfranchisement of women is to vote to increase the Socialist vote. Remember this is the first amendment on the ballot. Place your cross on the line reading "Against the Amendment."

J. P. ABEL,

Republican Candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

BENJAMIN CURLER THE RIGHT MAN.

FOR the supreme court you want a man who can be relied on to stand for the law as contained in the statutes and one who is not a trimmer swinging with every breeze and influenced by every sentiment. Ben F. Curlier, the judge who has been reared in Nevada and whose professional life has been spent with the citizens of six counties of the state, is the man for the office. He does not stoop to the enormity of writing letters begging his acquaintances of opposite political faith to register as members of another party that their votes may give him the nomination against his own political associates. Curlier is a man the people can trust with a decision whether it affect public or private interests. There is no comparison between the two candidates from the standpoint of law.

VOTE FOR SPRINGMEYER.

GEORGE SPRINGMEYER is a better type of citizen than George Thatcher, the accidental attorney-general of Nevada, who sneaked into the job through the back door entrance during the absence of Governor Oddie from the state. Thatcher is making a great ado over the letter George Springmeyer wrote during the campaign of four years ago, but the rack and torture could not drag out of Thatcher a statement as to the source of his information. The letter he is flourishing up and down the state was furnished by a railroad man whose identity has to be concealed that the public may not trace the attack on Springmeyer to the Southern Pacific railroad offices in San Francisco. Masking as an anti-railroad man Thatcher is flirting with the innereirele and taking his orders for transmission to the voters of Nevada.

HE IS NOT A JAWSMITH.

P. J. GALLAGHER, the man who played a lone hand in the primaries and won out is the right kind of a man for the office of justice of the peace in Tonopah. He has been on the bench and knows the law regarding such issues as those which come within the scope of the justice court and he may be relied on to give everybody his due. He is a workman who knows what it is to depend on manual labor for a living and the fact that he was not too proud to take up the muckstick when he found himself out of work speaks of the man's character. He is the right stuff to promote politically. Instead of following the example of dyed-in-the-wool politicians he went direct to the mines and earned an honest living by the sweat of his brow and will make good as justice of the peace.

If you want to plunge the county in bankruptcy all you have to do is to continue voting for the present administration, which is succeeding so well that it manages to dispense salaries at the rate of $74,000 a year, or an average of $25 for every voter. The entire expenses of the county should not exceed the pro rata shown by the salary outlay for the month of September, and then it would leave lots of room for improvement.

The great cry of Nevada today is one for better schools and more progressive ideas. If the voters want a change, and there is little doubt of their wishes in this respect, they should vote for J. F. Abel for Superintendent of Public Instruction. He is the man who is fitted to take charge of the schools along advanced lines and to refrain from playing politics like the incumbent, who devotes most of his time to adjusting his fences to secure a return to office at the expiration of his two years.
